

Fios® TV Programming Change

On or after February 4, 2019, ESPN Classic on channel 310 will be removed from the Fios TV channel lineup.

Fios® TV Programming Change

As you may know, Verizon receives new proposals from content providers when it's time to renew the current agreements for channels we provide in our Fios TV lineup.

At Verizon, we put our customers first in all of our content decisions. Our priority is always to provide the content our customers want at a fair price.

Because the cost of programming is the single biggest factor in higher TV bills, we carefully review proposals from content providers to ensure that the rates they propose are in line with their viewership. Doing this allows us to bring our customers competitive rates for Fios TV packages.

As part of that process, we have decided to drop Fuse channels from our lineup effective January 1, 2019. Customers can visit verizon.com/fuse, for more information.

We understand you have a choice for home entertainment and appreciate your choosing Verizon.

Fios® TV Programming Change

As you may know, we must periodically renew our agreements with TV content providers to be able to provide you with the programming available on Fios® TV.

Despite what you may be hearing from Disney, we have been negotiating a renewal agreement to keep their networks, which include those from Disney and ESPN, as well as ABC affiliates in Philadelphia and New York, in our lineup.

Disney is currently proposing that Verizon pay hundreds of millions of dollars more for its programming, despite the fact that many of its key networks are experiencing declining viewership. In addition to the proposed rate increase, Disney is also demanding we include, and pay for, another regional sports channel, the ACC Network, in order to continue bringing you all the other Disney and ESPN networks we do today. The rising cost of programming is the biggest factor in higher TV bills and we are standing up to networks like Disney, refusing to accept these huge increases.

We've given Disney a reasonable offer to continue providing you access to its networks. Unfortunately, as of today, they have rejected our offers and there is a possibility that we won't be able to reach an agreement with them prior to our contract expiration on December 31, 2018 at 5pm EST.

Rest assured, our goal is to reach a fair agreement allowing you to continue to have access to the networks you enjoy today while securing an agreement that is in the best interest of our customers.

Thank you for choosing Verizon.

Fios® TV Programming Change

Residential Customer Notice:

We periodically renew our agreements with TV content providers to be able to provide you with the programming available on Fios TV.

At Verizon, we put our customers first in all our content decisions. We aim to provide the programs our customers want at a fair price.

Given that the cost of programming is the single biggest factor in higher TV bills, we carefully review these proposals from network providers to be sure that their rates are in line with their viewership. This practice allows us to bring you a competitive rate for Fios TV packages.

As a result, we have decided to remove The Blaze (Ch. 112 SD / 612 HD) from our lineup effective December 28, 2018. If you would like to continue watching BlazeTV, you can do that by downloading the BlazeTV app from your favorite app store or by enrolling in a subscription at theblaze.com.

We know you have a choice for home entertainment and appreciate you choosing Verizon.

Business Customer Notice:

We periodically renew our agreements with TV content providers to be able to provide you with the programming available on Fios TV.

At Verizon, we put our customers first in all our content decisions. We aim to provide the programs our customers want at a fair price.

Given that the cost of programming is the single biggest factor in higher TV bills, we carefully review these proposals from network providers to be sure that their rates are in line with their viewership. This practice allows us to bring you a competitive rate for Fios TV packages.

As a result, we have decided to remove The Blaze (Ch. 112 SD / 612 HD) from our lineup effective December 28, 2018.

We know you have a choice for entertainment and appreciate you choosing Verizon.